

Where Does Physical Literacy Fit Now?

Dean Kriellaars

Comments

Always great listening to Dean. Great reminders about motivation, competence, confidence etc.

Excellent information! Thanks for sharing.

Excellent presentation !!! I teach Physical Literacy in my PE class and I learned more of the transfer of skill to other areas in a better perspective. I loved his idea of creating challenges for students and it is one that I will use this fall both face to face and on line with my teaching. I also wrote down some of his quotes that I will use with my students and in presenting the WHY I teach this way with my administrators.

Excellent session on physical literacy as a school wide goal.

Gained some more insight of the term "physical literacy" which will be helpful in conversations with my administration team and teachers at school! Appreciate the quote: "Physical Literacy is the gateway to active participation!" So true as one understands that kids need to enjoy moving and that comes from helping them build their confidence and competence in their own skills and abilities. Looking at how we shape our lessons and are we allowing for those creative opportunities that help kids to be resilient? Great Good overview of what physical literacy is and should be.

Good topic.

Great session! Such an important subject that I would like to research more.

Great session! Love what he said and layering the content and challenging kids at different levels. The +1 and -1 are perfect analogy for challenging students at differing levels.

Great session. Good points throughout, especially the cycle and developing competence and confidence simultaneously.

Great Stuff!!!! This was like a Sunday morning but with PE.

#HighQualitySession

He speaks to the heart of a quality physical educator. Bottom line...We want our students to participate in joyful activity for the rest of their lives!!! Gotta help them become physically literate so that they can take their bodies and have joyful experiences through all phases of their life!!

helps bring the conversation back to physical literacy and it's importance, even during covid

I agree that physical literacy is important and that children need to learn how to move which will increase their awareness during this social justice movement and pandemic. This workshop is needed in every school district as many do not feel physical literacy is important.

I like the idea of having +1 or -1 activities ready to level up or down for my students. Adding an extra challenge for students to get creative and think outside the box will be fun!

I love listening to Dean speak! I heard him and conference & was so excited to see him as a list of speakers today!

Insightful presentation by Dean and really appreciate being in a position to listen to his breadth and depth of knowledge

Love the practice of making our P.E. programs (and entire school activities) "user friendly" for students of all skill levels. That's a challenge for all of us....one we need to work on.

Love the shoe metaphor.

Loved the idea of creative progression! Thank you for sharing all of your valuable information!

Outstanding!!

Presentation helped with understanding concepts.

Really good stuff! This changes the way we should think about physical education. Thanks for the opportunity to learn this.

Thank you for putting together this session. Dean had a lot of great insight on physical literacy and how and why to implement it in our schools.

Thank you! Got me thinking about inclusiveness and every single student has their needs.

Thank you!!

Thank you!!

Thanks for this free session!

This was the best one yet!!! Loved it!!

WOW! Opened my eyes to Physical Literacy and the physical education needs to be much more than that.